TRAINING FOR THE FUTURE

Becoming a Digital Reporter or Legal Transcriber

With a shortage of court reporters and legal transcribers needed to keep our robust legal system flowing, education is the key to building resources for the future. Key industry instructors and trainers dive deeper into the programs used to develop these professionals.

DEMAND

Due to an already existing shortage of court reporters and legal transcribers, and a backlog of cases due to COVID-19, never before has there been a greater need for training new professionals.

DEVELOPMENT

Over the last five years, industry experts like our panelists have developed new training programs to better and more efficiently train a new generation of court reporters and legal transcribers.

SUCCESS

Record numbers of court reporters and legal transcribers are completing training programs prepared for national certification and a successful career.
